

Dear Montanan:

Montana State University Extension, the Montana Credit Unions for Community Development and the First Interstate BancSystem Foundation have teamed up to provide you with the enclosed packet of resources to help you manage your finances more effectively during these economically challenging times.

The packet is being made available to you without charge by these three organizations in recognition of the financial stress that is being experienced by many Montana families.

As long as supplies last we can provide additional packets that can be shared with others whom you know would like to discover ideas on how to effectively manage their money. Simply send us the names of your friends and relatives and we will mail them packets. We will enclose a note that says “your name” thought you would be interested in receiving the enclosed packet of materials on financial management. Or, you can remain anonymous if you wish.

Several Webinars were recorded in the family financial management area. These Webinars can be viewed at: www.montana.edu/extensionecon/webinars.html

We hope the financial resources will help you improve your financial management skills. Additional resources can be found at www.montana.edu/extensionecon/familyeconomics.html
